WHERE ARE YOUR LIPS WHEN YOU TALK OVER THE TELEPHONE?

Scientific tests show that every additional inch of distance between the lips of the speaker and the mouthpiece of the telephone is equivalent to adding 120 miles of wire to the line over which one is talking. The proper distance is about one inch; if farther than that, such sounds as "b, p, d, t, f, z" are transmitted poorly. If closer than one-half inch, nasal sounds like "m" and "n" do not enter the transmitter properly.—Adv.

CHEERED UP BY WHAT HE HEARS OF TONOPAH

C. B. Zabriskie, general manager of the Pacific Borax company, and an officer of the Tonopah & Tidewater railroad, sends the following from New York city to the editor of The Bonanza:

"Just a few lines, old man, to wish you every happiness and continued prosperity and contentment during the year 1922 for you and yours.

"It certainly does my heart good to see Tonopah continue in such a flourishing condition, as it means continued prosperity for yourself and other old sagebrush friends of mine, and I understand there is a good chance of dear old Candelaria once more coming on the map. It is not the locality, but the people, that make the place, and certainly the old Candelarians, many of whom are still in your section, were men of sterling quality. It must be that the pure air and the fragrance of the sagebrush produces men of such sterling qualities.

"Believe me, my heart is with my dear old friends of the Sage brush state.

"Very sincerely,
C. B. ZABRISKIE."

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE MARRIED SATURDAY

The wedding of Alice Pauline McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McGuire, and J. Emmet McVeigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McVeigh, was solemnized at the home of the parents of the groom on Central street Saturday evening last, at 6 o'clock. Father Edward Noonan, of St. Patrick's church, officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Helen Ecklund, while James McVeigh, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man in most approved fashion.

The bride looked charming in her beautiful tulle gown embroidered with rosebuds of silver. The bride's bouquet was Cecil Brown's roses. Miss Ecklund wore a gown of white organdy over white satin.

A sumptuous repast was served in honor of the newlyweds and the invited guests, who all joined in every good wish on behalf of the young couple. The gifts received by the bride and groom were both costly and useful, and should prove most attractive in their pretty home at Cross and Central streets, where a welcome awaits their many friends and admirers.

Mrs. McVeigh has been employed as a stenographer in the office of the district attorney, while her husband holds a mechanical position with Campbell & Kelly. Both young people have resided in Tonopah for several years past.

Although called the "boss" of Pennsylvania, Senator Penrose obtained larger election majorities than ever under the primary system and held as tight control, spending much of his time between Washington and Harrisburg and Philadelphia. The senator, although a law-

MAKES SUGGESTION TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

The attorney general of Nevada recently received a letter from a woman asking advice respecting premises which she had rented, the tenant of which is said to have erected thereon a still and to be operating it. She wanted to know if she would be liable and what she should do.

A wit suggested that the attorney general wire this advice. "Keep still."

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING

The regular annual meeting of stockholders of the Mercury Mining Company will be held at the office of the Company, Room 1024 of the "Cracker" building in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, on Wednesday, the 11th day of January, A. D. 1922, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing directors, of said corporation for the ensuing year and considering the advisability of selling the company's property or so much thereof as may be necessary to liquidate the company's obligations; and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

Dated, San Francisco, Calif., December 27th, 1921.

G. D. ABBOTT, Secretary.

MERCURY MINING COMPANY.

December will pass into history as recording the highest temperature of any last month in the year.

On the twelfth day of the month a mark of 60 was reached, which has never been equaled since the weather bureau was established in Tonopah 16 years ago.

AMUSEMENTS

MARY PICKFORD AT BUTLER LAST TIMES

There came to the Butler yesterday for a two-day run a photoplay that left a profound impression on the audiences. It was Mary Pickford's million dollar picture, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," the most appealing, and at the same time the most perfect photoplay ever to pass through a projecting machine. The mingled laughter and tears accentuated by resounding applause, acclaimed "America's sweetheart" goddess supreme of the cinema art. Her interpretation of the roles of Dearest and Little Lord Fauntleroy will probably never be approached by anyone in the picture realm. The fine industry and delicate shading, the conviction brought to these widely different roles by Mary Pickford represents the greatest achievement of all times in the shadow world, and the motion picture industry can well express its thanks to this wonderful woman for bringing to its highest development the art of picture making.

FUNERAL OF PENROSE WILL BE PRIVATE

Pennsylvania legislature for many years, Penrose did not at first take a very prominent part in Republican party councils at Washington. Until his death, however, he never lost prestige as the leader of his party in his own state. About at all times but with a reputation that could be traced in a political deal, Senator Penrose made fast friends and irreconcilable enemies. The latter often charged him with representing the "interests."

Senator Penrose was an early advocate of United States intervention in Mexico and in 1913 introduced a resolution requesting that American troops be sent into the republic south of the Rio Grande. He was an unyielding opponent of the Wilson administration and particularly of the draft of the treaty of peace as submitted to the senate by President Wilson. He characterized the transfer to Japan of former German concessions in Shantung, China, as a violation of every principle of the league of nations and a bribe to Japan, and declared it "dispossession of 40,000,000 Chinese of vital rights against their will."

Special work for protective tariffs was Senator Penrose's chief legislative hobby, particularly with reference to revenue legislation, and although his devotion did not result in the passage of a "Penrose bill," he will long be remembered for his activity along those lines. He consistently fought prohibition legislation. He seldom made speeches in the senate, reading few prepared addresses and those almost only on fiscal affairs, but he was quick in partisan repartee and his thrusts won for him the fame of humorist of the upper house, both Democrats and Republicans enjoying his clever sallies.

The senator's long feud with the Vero political faction in Philadelphia was one of the outstanding features of his career. It showed him as a most resourceful fighter.

yer, seldom appeared in courts in his years.

He was perhaps the largest man physically in the senate, standing 6 feet 4 inches in height and weighing close to 300 pounds. He traced his ancestry back for more than 600 years and in his veins flowed the blood of some of the most distinguished American families.

Born in Philadelphia on November 1, 1860, young Penrose was educated by private tutors and at the Episcopal academy in his home city.

At 16 he entered Harvard from which he was graduated in 1881. He studied law with Wayne MacVeagh and George T. Bispham and was admitted to the bar in 1883.

Entering immediately into politics, a year later he was elected to the state legislature. In 1885 he helped to secure the passage of a reform charter for Philadelphia, known as the Bullitt bill, and the next year was chosen as state senator from one of the most aristocratic districts in Pennsylvania. In 1890 he was made president pro tempore of the
